Henry Bellmon Sustainability Awards

Sustainable Tulsa and the Rotary Club of South Tulsa hosted the 2017 Henry Bellmon Sustainability Awards on Sept. 14 at Southern Hills Country Club. Nearly 200 people attended the event, which raised $42,000 for Sustainable Tulsa.

The ceremony is named after the late and former Oklahoma governor Henry Bellmon, an early champion of sustainability in the state. It recognizes individuals, agencies, organizations, communities and companies who show leadership in sustainability and are improving the livability of our communities. The 2017 award winners were the Pencil Box, the Dry Cleaning Station, Tulsa City-County Library and the Tulsa Hub.

1. JK Evicks, board president of Sustainable Tulsa; Susan Savage, CEO of Morton Comprehensive Health Services; and Corey Williams, executive director of Sustainable Tulsa
2. Michael Patton of Land Legacy
3. The evening's overall award went to the Tulsa Hub for providing community members tools to work toward financial success while lessening environmental impact.
4. Shae Rozzi of Fox 23 News; Norm Waters of the Tulsa Hub; Ann Denney, Henry Bellmon's daughter; Williams; Ren Barger of the Tulsa Hub; and Bob Sullivan of Rich and Cartmill Inc.
