

Tulsa City-County Library Offers Resources To Help Facilitate Civil Discourse/ Respect

As a community entity, Tulsa City-County Library serves as a great equalizer. A place where all people are welcomed and have equal access to information and technology. A place where collaboration is key and knowledge is power. We believe that informed, engaged individuals are the backbone of our democracy and stand for a society built on mutual respect and understanding.

In light of the national events in Charlottesville, VA, our library team has compiled a list of resources to aid in civil discourse:

Booklist:

List of books for adults and children focused on ways to have constructive conversations with people with differing viewpoints.

For additional resources, visit our online catalog at TulsaLibrary.org.

TCCL Cultural Resource Centers:

African-American Resource Center

Hispanic Resource Center

Native American Resource Center

Databases:

African-American Experience: Full-text resource explores the history and culture of African-Americans, and provides a wealth of primary sources.

American Indian Experience: Full-text resource exploring the histories and contemporary cultures of the indigenous peoples of the United States.

Pew Research Center

Pew Research Center is a nonpartisan fact tank dedicated to informing the public about the issues, attitudes, and trends shaping America and the world. It conducts public opinion polling, demographic research, media content analysis, and other empirical social science research. Pew Research center does not take policy positions.

We hope you will find these resources useful and will share with others. Our librarians are always ready to connect our customers and our community with vetted sources for learning more.
