

☐ NEXT UP  Celebrity Attractions new CEO ready for next stage
In June, Dotson was named the company's president, succee... ☐

ARTS: Library offers summer reading suggestions

By James D. Watts Jr. Tulsa World Jul 20, 2017 ☐ 0

Those participating in the Tulsa City-County Library's adult summer reading program, or anyone who isn't quite sure what book to read next, can give some pointers from the five avid readers who will present "Take Five: Read to Build a Better World," 6:30 p.m. Tuesday, July 25, in Central Library's Pocahontas Greadington Learning and Creativity Center, 400 Civic Center.

The five panelists will be: Ellen Noel, TCCL customer service assistant; Ellen Cummings, Zarrow Regional Library manager; Sherrie Wallace, Suburban Acres Library manager; Jessica Sanchez, Central Library teen library associate; and Brian Cowlshaw, associate professor of English at Northeastern State University.

Each speaker will discuss five books, which have some connection to this year's theme of "Build a Better World." The books under discussion will include fiction and non-fiction, from the popular to the offbeat to the scholarly.

The event is free and open to the public.

Safelite AutoGlass® - Save $20 with Promo Code DK20.
Safelite AutoGlass

Schedule Now to Save $20 on Cash Windshield Replacements. Use the code DK20!

WEBSITE DIRECTIONS

Readers still have time to sign up for the reading program to earn coupons for free treats and entertainment. To sign up: guides.tulsalibrary.org/asrp.

Scene Writer James D. Watts Jr.

James writes primarily about the visual, performing and literary arts. Phone: 918-581-8478

(0) comments

Welcome to the discussion.

The Tulsa World requires that you use your real first and last name on your account, which will appear next to your comments. If you see a questionable comment or a fake name, click the report button next to the comment. Review the guidelines to post comments.

Post a comment

Watch this discussion.