The Tulsa Council for Holocaust Education and the Tulsa City-County Library will commemorate the 77th anniversary of Kristallnacht at 2 p.m. Sunday at the Jewish Federation of Tulsa, 2021 E. 71st St.

Kristallnacht, also known as the "Night of Broken Glass," was a wave of violence against Jewish people and synagogues Nov. 9 and 10, 1938, throughout Germany and also in annexed Austria and areas of the Sudetenland in Czechoslovakia that were occupied by German troops.

Kristallnacht is widely considered as the beginning of the Holocaust, Nazi Germany's systematic, state-sponsored attempt to annihilate the Jews.

Rabbi Dan Kaiman of Congregation B'nai Emunah will talk about Kristallnacht at the commemoration, called "Propaganda and Persecution: A Personal Perspective.”

The program also will feature a question-and-answer session with Holocaust survivor Peter Feigl via Skype, moderated by Lisa Bauman, U.S. Holocaust Memorial Museum Teacher Fellow.

Feigl was a German schoolboy living in Vienna when the Nazis annexed Austria. Although he was baptized Catholic, he was considered racially Jewish by the Nazis. His parents sent him to a Catholic summer camp for safekeeping, and he survived the war through an extended network of rescuers.

His wartime diary was recovered and published in “Salvaged Pages: Young Writers’ Diaries of the Holocaust,” edited by Alexandra Zapruder.

Feigl also is featured in the “State of Deception: The Power of Nazi Propaganda” exhibit on display at the Sherwin Miller Museum of Jewish Art in Tulsa.

At the commemoration, Bauman will discuss her work with Zapruder on new curriculum to accompany “Salvaged Pages,” which will be released next year.

The commemoration is free and suitable for adults and youths in sixth grade and above.

Following the program, attendees may view the “State of Deception” exhibit at no charge. For more information, call the Jewish Federation of Tulsa, 918-495-1100.
