

Collinsville Cherokee appropriation

Collinsville PD receives $3,805.53 from Cherokee Nation

Former Cherokee Nation Councilwoman Cara Cowan Watts appropriated $3,805.53 of Fiscal Year 2015 Tribal Council Law Enforcement funds to the Collinsville Police Department.

The Collinsville Police Department will use the funds to purchase radar units to keep school zones safe for Collinsville children as well as body video cameras for all officers including reserve officers.

District 13 was allocated a total of $22,833.20. Watts chooses to appropriate the money evenly across all law enforcement agencies in her District. District 13 includes most of Tulsa County which is within the Cherokee Nation and southwestern portions of Rogers County.

Law Enforcement funds are generated by the Cherokee Nation Motor Vehicle Tax or Cherokee Tribal car tags. Law enforcement receives a 20 percent set aside of the net funds generated by Cherokee car tag purchases. Each individual councilperson determines the actual appropriation amount as well as which agencies receive funds.

What Our Customers are Reading—and Recommending

Private L.A., by James Patterson and Mark Sullivan

Thom and Jennifer Harlow are the perfect couple, with three perfect children. They may be two of the biggest mega movie stars in the world, but they're also great parents, philanthropists and just all-around good people.

When they disappear without a word from their ranch, facts are hard to find. They live behind such a high wall of security and image control that even world-renowned Private Investigator Jack Morgan can't get to the truth.

But as Jack keeps probing, secrets sprout thick and fast — and the world's golden couple may emerge as hiding behind a world of desperation and deception that the wildest reality show couldn't begin to unveil. Murder is only the opening scene.
