Library receives new self-check machine early

In preparation for our remodel, the Owasso Library has received a new self-check machine early. Please come by the library and try it out. On the new self-check, you can:

- Check out your books quickly by placing them on the window – up to eight books at a time.
- Scan the barcode in your Tulsa Library app on your phone or use your library card.
- Check the status of your account, including items checked out, fines and items on hold.
- Pay for fines, even if you only want to pay a portion of the fines.

If you have lost your library card, please come by the library in August for a free replacement card.

If you have a mobile device, you can also download the Tulsa Library app in the app store or find more information at www.tulsalibrary.org/app. The mobile app allows you to search your library catalog wherever you are.

You can locate books, movies, music and more with easy search features designed for mobile devices. The app allows you to store your library card barcode and you can scan the barcode right from your phone. No more worrying about forgetting your library card when you have the information on your smart phone.

Reminder – the library will be closed during the week of Aug. 24-29 for a small remodel. Owasso customers can still return items in the book drop and pick up hold items in the meeting room from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday, Aug. 24 through Friday, Aug. 28.

We will not have any programming during the month of August so we can prepare for the remodel. Storytimes will resume in September.

What to expect when we re-open on Aug. 31:

- New self-check machines and smaller service stations will be replacing our big circulation desk. Self-check machines allow customers to come in, pick up their materials, and check out quickly. After the remodel, customers will also be able to check in their own library materials (if you have 10 CDs or DVDs checked out on your card and have reached your limit, you can check them in on the self-check and immediately check out 10 more).

• Library staff will be available at the smaller stations throughout the library to help with any questions. There will even be a self-check in the children's area, so your kids can continue to enjoy books and toys while you check out library materials, or the kids can check out their own items.

• A drive-through book drop will be available on the north side of the library so you can drop off library materials without leaving the car.

• A new seating area and new DVD shelving for easier browsing.

• "Quick pick" display – quick picks are high demand items purchased specifically for display and check-out on demand. These items cannot be put on hold and are not included on a waiting list. So if you are on the waiting list for the newest James Patterson book and there are a few hundred people ahead of you on the list, you could get lucky and find it sitting on the quick pick display shelf. Owasso will be one of the first library branches to have quick pick DVDs.

• New shelving at the front of the library for recent returns. Now you will be able to easily browse recently returned items available for immediate check-out.

• Google chrome tablets, laptops, and a children's laptop and tablet pre-loaded with games available for checkout and use in the library.

• New seating and displays in the lobby.

• Data outlets at all tables.

• Glass in meeting room doors. The meeting room will be open for anyone to use for when there is not a meeting scheduled.

• New easy-to-read signs throughout the building.

Your Owasso Library staff will still be available to help you use the new self-checks, find what you need, and provide excellent customer service. If you have questions about the changes please ask us. We love to answer questions at the library.
