Zinio featured this month at Owasso Public Library

Would you like to receive free monthly copies of your favorite magazine?

Are you interested in learning more about cooking, beading, crafting, or just want to catch up on the latest celebrity gossip?

There is no limit to the amount of magazines you can download. You keep the magazines forever or until you decide to delete them. Magazines are provided by the Tulsa Library and are free, with no overdue fees. New issues are added every month.

MCQUADE

Check out our featured service for the month of May, Zinio digital magazines. Zinio provides digital versions of popular magazines that you can read online in your web browser or offline by downloading the magazine to your computer or mobile device.

You also can get instant access to more than 3,000 newspapers from 100 countries with Newspaper Direct. Download newspapers using the WiFi connection at any Tulsa City-County Library.

These digital magazines ("eMagazines") are full-print, full-color duplicates of the print magazine, including ads. Many issues also include interactive elements such as video, audio and links.

You can download the newspapers to the Press Reader app for later reading at home.

Choose from more than 125 magazines, including Us Weekly, Cosmopolitan, Good Housekeeping, Newsweek, Kiplinger's, and specialty magazines about topics such as beading, bird watching, automobiles, crafting and cooking.

Magazines, newspapers, and help for both can be found at www.tulsalibrary.org/enewspapers.

All you need to read or download magazines is a valid Tulsa Library card, internet access, a library Zinio account to choose your magazines, and a compatible device: Android, Blackber-

Don't miss the Grammy-nominated quintet Imani Winds at the Rudisill Regional Library, 1520 N. Hartford, Thursday, May 7. Imani Winds will be performing in the Ancestral Hall from 7-8 p.m. The concert is open to all ages.

More than North America's premier wind quintet (flute, oboe, clarinet, horn and bassoon), Imani Winds has established itself as one of the most successful chamber music ensembles in the United States.
