Tulsa City-County Library and Workforce Tulsa aid job seekers

By the Tulsa City-County Library
For the Journal

In an effort to increase job searching opportunities, Tulsa City-County Library has partnered with Workforce Tulsa. Workforce Tulsa clients will automatically be registered for a Tulsa City-County Library card providing them access to valuable in-library and digital resources available at all 24 libraries throughout Tulsa County.

"We are very excited to now be able to offer to all of our Workforce Tulsa clients access to Tulsa City-County Library's substantial online resources as a way to build their skills and ultimately become employed and build wealth for the Tulsa area," said Shelley Cadamy, Executive Director, Workforce Tulsa. "Adding the libraries to our network of access points is a very natural progression of our partnership and provides tremendous resources for those looking for a new job."

Workforce Tulsa offers services and resources to people who are entering the job market for the first time, who want to improve their work-related skills to apply for and gain a better job, who were formerly incarcerated and now seek job-training and employment, and who are interested in learning about different and new career options.

Whether you are searching for a job or looking to transition to a new career, make Tulsa City-County Library your first stop.

Visit one of Tulsa City-County Library's 24 convenient locations or online for help navigating through the challenging process of finding your ideal job. From searching job listings to learning how to craft an effective résumé, you are sure to find the support you need at the library.

To help build your skills, librarians with Tulsa City-County Library have created a one-stop location at <http://guides.tulsalibrary.org/jobs> for any level of job help. This section features all of the library and community services available to help job seekers increase their marketability.

The library offers numerous books to help you become the perfect job candidate. Search the library catalog at www.tulsalibrary.org for keywords like job hunting, cover letters or interviewing. Find your perfect books and have them delivered to your chosen branch for pickup.

Do you need access to a computer to search for jobs, fill out online job applications or write a résumé? Tulsa City-County Library offers free computer access and wireless (Wi-Fi) connection.

Online tools for all things job-related are accessible from home or library computers:

Sapulpa man sentenced to 17 years in child-porn case

From Staff Reports
news@skiatookjournal.com

TULSA — A Sapulpa man was sentenced to serve 210 months in prison, to be followed by lifetime supervised release, today for possessing and distributing child pornography, United States Attorney Danny C. Williams Sr. for the Northern District of Oklahoma online operation discovered a total of 290 images and 143 videos of child pornography on the defendant's computer.

"Child pornography is a heinous crime against children and those who participate in online exploitation will be prosecuted," said U.S. Attorney Williams. "My office is committed to safeguarding our communities. We will continue in our community from exploitation and sexual abuse."

Kevin Leroy Smith, 50, was charged on July 9, 2014, with eight counts of distribution and attempted distribution of child pornography and one count of possession of child pornography. A jury found Smith guilty of all counts on Sept. 16, 2014.

During the investigation,

Peer to Peer program (P2P), the FBI was able to download 14 videos and two images of child pornography from January and February 2014 from another user. The FBI tracked the username to Smith.

In addition to the sentence of incarceration of 210 months, Smith was fined $25,000 and ordered to pay $1,000 in restitution and a $900 special as-

United States District Judge John E. Dowdell presided over the sentencing. The case was investigated by the FBI and was prosecuted by Assistant U.S. Attorney Jeffrey Gallant for the Northern District of Oklahoma.

This case was brought as part of Project Safe Childhood, a nationwide initiative to combat the growing epidemic of abuse launched in May 2006 by the Department of Justice. Led by United States Attorneys' Offices and the Criminal Division's Child Exploitation and Obscenity Section (CEOS), Project Safe Childhood marshals federal, state and local resources to better locate, apprehend and prosecute individuals who exploit children via the Internet, as well as to
