TCCL makes ebooks easy to download and read

By Linda Wallace
Children's Library Associate Skiatook Library

The other night I was watching a Ken Burns documentary about Mark Twain. The documentary expounded on how revolutionary the book, "Huckleberry Finn" was, and what a difference it had made in American literature. I was sure that I had read the book as a child, but I still picked up my "trusty" tablet and went to the Tulsa City-County Library app, and promptly downloaded the book. I did this as I was watching the show.

I quickly realized that, although I had read "The Adventures of Tom Sawyer" as a child, I had never read "Huckleberry Finn." Getting an ebook from TCCL is so simple! For those of you who would like to delve into the world of ebooks, I would strongly encourage you to jump right in. The Tulsa City County Library makes it very easy to start enjoying digital literature today. And your local librarians are here to help you get started.

We are super excited to announce some statistics for our summer reading program. Around 500 children completed the program in Skiatook. Participation in the Teen/Tween and Children's programs was enthusiastic. Programs such as Coldthorn the Mentalist; The Great Bradini and Wacky Science; Chris Capstone, Vaudevillian Magician; Dustin Reudelheuber, Magician and Balloon Maker-Extraordinaire wowed the audiences. Locally generated programs with a scientific twist were also a hit. You may also be interested in the following library programming:

- Preschool Story Time — Thursdays from 11 a.m. until noon;
- Paws for Reading with Miss Marlie — Thursdays from 10-11 a.m.;
- Paws for Reading with Miss Fredrika — Saturdays from Noon-1 p.m.
