Street Party

St. John Medical Center has been providing Tulsa and the surrounding region with comprehensive health-care services for nearly 90 years.

That is why the annual St. John Street Party, one of the city's largest outdoor fundraising events, is as much a way of educating the public of just what St. John has to offer as it is a way to celebrate its history and benefit its ever-expanding services.

This year's event will directly benefit St. John Health System and St. John Clinic in their efforts to develop multidisciplinary teams to provide consistent and coordinated patient-centered medical care for our communities.

The 2014 Street Party is titled "Red Dirt Roundup," and will feature foods supplied by more than 60 of the city's top restaurants, wine-tasting opportunities, and live entertainment by the Mid-Life Crisis Band.

Event details: 7-11:30 p.m. Saturday, June 7, on the St. John complex, 19th Street between Utica and Wheeling avenues.

Volunteer recognition

The Tulsa City-County Library presented its Marcus R. Tower Service Award, which recognizes and shows appreciation to Tulsa County individuals who have made a notable contribution to enhance the quality of library service, to Beverly Dieterlen at a recent ceremony honoring library volunteers.

The library used the occasion to congratulate and express its gratitude to the more than 1,000 volunteers who have collectively donated more than 35,000 service hours.

Dieterlen received the Tower Award, sponsored by the Bank of Oklahoma and the Tulsa

'Some Like It Hot'

Seattle artist Dale Chihuly revolutionized the art world when he began creating his distinctive glass art in 1971. He has won international fame for his gigantic installations that incorporate tens of thousands of individual pieces, such as the permanent exhibit of his work at the Oklahoma City Museum of Art.

One of Chihuly's works, a bowl-like vessel called "Dakota Macchia," is one of the items up for bid as part of the Tulsa Glassblowing School's annual fundraising event, "Some Like It Hot."

"It is a great honor for us to receive this incredible piece from Chihuly. His contribution adds value to the Tulsa Glassblowing School's place in the glass art community," said Janet Duvall, executive director of Tulsa Glassblowing School.

"The money raised from this event will positively impact a growing number of youth by providing an artistic outlet that requires critical thinking, team building and discipline," Duvall said.

The live and silent auctions held during the evening will give patrons the chance to bid on work by such internationally known artists as Richard Royal, Karen Willenbrink-Johnsen, Pino Cherchi, Scott Darlington, Ben Cobb, and Rob Stern.

A total of 24 fine art pieces will be available in the live auction and more than 50 will be available in the silent auction.

Glass art pieces by local artists including Kenneth Gonzales, Rory McCallister, Natalie Legener, Cedric Mitchell and Paul Bevilacqua, as well as TGS students, will also be available.

Event details: 6:30 p.m. Thursday June 5 at the Mayo Hotel, 115 W. Fifth St.

Honorary chair: Tulsa glass artist Kreg Kallenberger.

Sponsors: Coretz Family Foundation, The Silver Needle, Sanford and Irene Burnstein Foundation, Dover Energy, Wendy and Gentner Drummond, Tana and Grant Parks, Dr. Greg Gray, and Myra Block Kaiser.

Tickets: $100.

Oil Barons Ball

The 1940s was one of the halcyon decades for Tulsa, from the “Greatest Generation” winning a hard-earned victory in World War II, to the city’s own renaissance, when it was at once the “Oil Capital of the World” and “America’s Most Beautiful City.”

The Tulsa Historical Society will be celebrating these special times as part of its Vintage Tulsa: Oil Barons Ball.

The gala will benefit the society’s educational programs, with a focus on developing programs for third-grade students who are introduced to Tulsa and Oklahoma history for the first time in their regular school classes.

The evening includes an elegant sit-down dinner, special toasts to Tulsa then and now, live music and dancing.

Event details: 6:30-11 p.m. Friday, June 6, at the Travis Mansion, 2445 S. Peoria Ave.

Chairs: Adam Peterson and Susan Stuart Peterson.

Tickets: $150 individual. To purchase, call 918-712-9484 or send email to bworley@tulсахistory.org

Western Days

Organizers for the annual charity event for Saint Simeon’s have always looked to the West for inspiration – there’s a reason why it’s called Saint Simeon’s Western Days. But for the 2014 event, they decided to look for a concept a little closer to home. Thus was born “OKLAHOMA! Our Home is Grand!” which will take place Tuesday, Sept. 9, at Central Park Hall at Expo Square. Event co-chair Kristin Bender hosted a kick-off event April 29, where she announced that Margaret and Ross Swimmer have been selected as Honorary Chairs and will be celebrated for their longtime guidance and support of Saint Simeon’s. This year’s event also will honor Saint Simeon’s resident Mable Rice with the Pioneer Spirit Award, in celebration of her dedication to minority rights and community development in Tulsa. Rice worked as a founder and developer of the Oklahoma Jazz Hall of Fame, North Tulsa Heritage Foundation, the Greenwood Cultural Center and the Business and Industrial Development Corporation in an effort to preserve the rich history of the Greenwood District. Event details: Tuesday, Sept. 9, at Central Park Hall at Expo Square, 4145 E. 21st St. Tickets: $75 each. To purchase, or for more information on sponsorships, 918-794-1937 or send email to cblair@saintsimeons.org.
