LIBRARY CORNER

Touch-A-Truck successful for Owasso Library

By Barbara Barnes
Branch Manager
Owasso Library

Robertson offers surprising insights from the women behind the beards about what makes this family work.

Our Touch-a-Truck event this past Thursday night was a huge success.

1,300 people came to look at the different vehicles. We want to say a huge thank you to all the people who were willing to bring their vehicles on their own time so children and adults alike could see inside the Bookmobile, eat the Shriners' popcorn, and climb up into the Army truck.

A special thank you goes out to the Owasso Public Works for bringing three trucks. All of the following came: the Owasso Police Department, Owasso Fire Department, P&K Equipment, Ice Cream on Wheels, News on 6 Craig Day, Stacia Knight and Travis Meyer, PSO, GCC Mid-Continent with a PINK cement truck and Stacy and Bryon Fry with the military vehicle.

And a special thank you to our volunteers and our staff especially Jennifer McQuade for putting it together and doing a grand job.

ADULT FICTION

Brotherhood of Fear by Paul Grossman — set in 1933 Paris, Willi Kraus has no papers and few resources but he does have a reputation as a very good detective. To solve a murder, he must go from the grand salons of Paris to the seediest places.

TWEEN FICTION

P.K. Pinkerton and the Pistol-packing Widows by Caroline Lawrence — in 1860s Nevada, master-of-disguise P. K. Pinkerton uncovers a sinister plot when he takes a case that calls for him to shadow his friend and mentor, Poker Face Jace. Mystery

House of Secrets: Battle of the Beasts by Chris Columbus — continuing the story from the first book, the Walker children are rich now and going to a fancy prep school. However they won't be safe until Denver Kristoff finds his daughter Dahlia (the Wind Witch). Science fiction

JUVENILE FICTION

School of Charm by Lisa Ann Scott — after her beloved father's death in 1977, 11-year-old tomboy Chip tries to fit with her family of beauty queens, making unlikely new friends at Miss Vernie's unusual charm school in Mt. Airy, North Carolina.

Secrets of the Book by Erin Fry — when Spencer Lemon is chosen to guard a magical book, a strange man who knows a lot about the book shows up, and Spencer doesn't know if he wants the book or to help Spencer unravel the book's secrets.

JUVENILE NONFICTION

Eat a Rainbow by Susan Kesselring

Green thumbs welcome at community garden

From Staff Reports
news@owassoreporter.com

The Owasso Community Garden, located on the south side of the Community Center, is a place literally where not only gardens grow, but a sense of community flourishes.

Inch by inch, row by row, community gardeners will develop their green thumbs and their relationships with one another again this spring and summer as they strive toward their goal of fresh, healthy produce.

The community garden was founded in the spring 2011 by individuals from churches, organizations and area families with a vision to provide food for people who were food insecure.

Other goals were to create a sense of community and to teach people to grow food so they in turn are able to teach others.

The community garden now consists of 27 4-foot by 8-foot raised bed gardens including nine American Disabilities Act beds that have already been assigned. Families in the community who are interested in participating in the community garden may contact the Owasso Community Center.

There are several beds available. Interested gardeners complete a garden application for a $1 fee. Once a garden is assigned, that person will pay $5 to cover the $6 per year gardening fee.

Gardeners also agree to pay water usage fees shared equally among the gardeners if it becomes necessary.

Work days for gardeners and volunteers are scheduled throughout the growing season to prepare the beds with fresh soil and plantings for warm weather crops, such as tomatoes, cucumbers, peppers, lettuce, okra, eggplants, etc.

Gardeners are expected to participate in the garden's maintenance throughout the season.

The Owasso Community Center is located at 301 S. Cedar St.
